

Larry has been playing, singing, and collecting songs since his college days. He has dragged his guitar to Africa, Micronesia, and New Zealand, then across the North Atlantic twice on sailboats. Many of his songs have a nautical flavor and are played from the deck of his sailboat on Lake Superior or around a campfire at music festivals. His songs can take you to the glaciers of Patagonia, the farms of the Great Plains, and the coasts of Labrador. And there are songs to take you home.
