

Mark's slightly older cousin was one of the last children of the 1960's to be forced to take accordion lessons as a young child. Mark, however, didn't take up the accordion until the late 1980's while attending graduate school. Now, Mark is a Minneapolis/St Paul accordion player who performs solo, with a violin player, and with the jazz trio. Marks plays a wide variety of old jazz standards, folk, classic country and pop songs, and will wow and delight you with his chops!